Circuit—Before Judge Clerke.

Edward P. Cowles, Receiver of The Eighth Avenue Bank vs. Jacob Comwell.

This was an action upon the defendant's original subscription to the shares of the capital stock of the Eighth Avenue Bank. The whole capital stock was subscribed for in the first instance by twelve persons, who were the Directors, and the bulk of it was afterward transferred to various persons, and the transferees in many instances paid for the shares transferred to them in cash, at par. But in other cases, the Directors received their own notes in payment for shares, or to represent moch payments, and these notes remained in the Bank till its failure, and passed into the hunds of the Receiver. The defendant was one of the Directors, and subscribed for 306 shares, at $50 per share, of which he paid up in cash for fifty shares. The remaining 290 shares he transferred to various persons, including other Directors. Of the latter, 207 shares were paid for, except by promisery notes made by some or never paid for, except by promisery notes made by some or in cash by the transferees, but the remainder, or 33 shares were part for, except by promissory notes made by some of the Directors as before stated, the makers of which notes are now insolvent. The Court held that these transfers, made while the subscription remained unpaid, were in violation of the statute relating to "Moneved Corporations," and of the articles of association of this Sauk; and that the defendant is liable upon his first subscription for those shares which being part of that subscription have not been actually pail for, namely, 83 shares at $30 per share, or $4,150, with interest. Judgment associations, and the state of the subscription have not been strongly all for, namely, 83 shares at $30 per share, or $4,150, with interest. Judgment associations.

The plaintiff, who is the proprietor of The Churchman, claims $5,000 damages for alleged libel which was published in Nov., 1855, in The Church Journal, of which Bishop Hopkins, the defendant, is editor. Both these journals espouse the doctrines of the Episcopal Church. The paragraph complained of is as follows:

"Mr. Hecker his been chiefly remarkable for his subcess in the flour and baking business and for his great failure in the newspape business, a failure which seems likely to be aggravated so long as his other calling supplies him with money to be lost on paper and types. We admire his persevering liberality in a cause that entails nothing but loss both in character and cash, and lament that so much of expends and energy should not precure some of that knowledge and discretion so indispensable to success in conducting a Courter paper. We should have said this much long ago as an item of useful information, but for our unwillingness to appear desfrous of depreciating a corten paper. We have looked upon its erratic course more with perytham with the indignation that has been fold and expressed by so many others. But since the paper is setting to more and more profife in personalities against the clergt, and has now attacked with such reckiers and scandalous extravagues one of the best and most fathful and laborious among us, justice compels us to apeak out, lest persons at a distance games one of the best and most faithful and laborious among us, justice compels us to speak out, lest persons at a distance ahould be misled. When the slander of The Churchman is found to proceed only from an uneducated dealer in cereals and an English layman yet fresh from his mother country, whose opinions are those of his employer, the sonorous noise, power-less as stage thruder, and the sweet yieldings of kine will never curile the milk of human kindness in the breast of any reason-

INGRAHAM, F. J.—I find in the papers submitted to the in this matter, nothing to justify the conclusion that potitioner's proceedings are not fair or free from fraud. There may be differences in his account of goods held by him on commission, or even in regard to the affairs of the partnership; but I do not think the law requires a particular statement of such property in his custody.

The improvement in Stocks of yesterday afternoon was partially sustained this morning, the market open irg at full prices. Prices, however, fell off toward the close, and at the second Board the was a heavy market and lower prices ruled, without any recovery of feeling at the close. The market was freely supplied with Cash stock, the Money market being more stringent, and the bears showed greater disposition to put out sellers options. The transactions in Eric and Reading continue large. A small sale of the former was made at 57, seller twelve months. The market for Railroad Bonds was without important change, excepting in Illinois Central, which fell off | + cent, with more doing. The quotations for these bonds and for the stock of the road brought by the Europa, and which show a natural reaction after the rise, have had an unfavorable influence upon this market. Incresse, over 100 P cent..... Henry Meigs, jr, esq. Cashier of the Metropolitan Bank, has, we understand, resigned, with a view of commencing business as a Banker in Wall street. Mr. Richard Bell, for many years the agent in this city of the British Bank of North America, has resigned his connection with that institution, and has connected himself with the banking-house of Robb, Hallet & Co.

The receipts of gold from the interior thus far this week have been limited, but as the drain both to New-Orleans and Europe is checked, if not entirely over, this is of less importance. It is doubtful if the Empire Cty on Thursday takes any gold, although some has been packed for her. After the Africa, it is not anticipated that the European steamers will take any gold for several weeks. Money was more active again today, and was less easy to find.

The Banks are evidently restricting their loans in the street in order to supply the wants of their mercantile dealers. The impression is general among bank officers that some contraction is necessary unless the specie reserves can be strengthened. At the rate the Sub-Tressury is now accumulating it will reduce the bank average too low for safety before the next Celifornia arrival, even if the outward drain for other purposes should entirely cease.

The business of the Clearing-House was $28,474,000. A meeting of the first mortgage bondholders of the Plattsburgh and Montreal Railroad Company will be held at the office of Messrs, Ketchum, Howe and Co. No. 45 William street, on Saturday next, at 1 o'clock.

Judge Davies has granted another injunction on the

New-Haven Road to prevent the payment of the lately declared dividend. This injunction was granted on the application of Washington R. Vermilye and Wm. M. Vermilve. The bill to amend the charter of the New-York and Eric Railroad has passed the Senate. It authorizes the Directors to issue stock to an amount not exceeding so much of the net earnings of said Company as have been applied to the payment of the principal of its funded debt. The amount of this accumulation on the let inst. was $1,618,600, or a little more than 10 P cent on the amount of the present capital of the Com-

The private letters by the Europa speak of the London Money market as quite stringent, and express the opinion that the Bank may be obliged to raise its rate of interest, but business is looked upon as in a sound state, and no crisis in financial affairs is anticipated. Money was easier in some of the Continental cities. The letters bring very few orders for our Securities, money being too tight at fome. Messrs. Berenberg, Gossler & Co's circular, dated Hamburg, states that "Morey is less inquired for at 5) $\tilde{P}$ cent for discounts, and it is thought that the Chica news may prevent the continued heavy shipments of alleys to the East. The Austrian wants of silver are still supplied from here. There is more inquiry for stocks at d shares at rather better pieces. United States 6 $\tilde{P}$ cout Bonds, pr. 1888, held at 180. The Pottsville Miners' Journal says: "We are happy to learn that Mr. Tucker has already secured the cooperation of the Delaware & Hudson Company, and the Scranton or Lackawanna and Great Western Coal Company, so far as carrying coal east is occerned. This embraces sufficient to make the coal organization as effective as could be expected in so short a period from its conception—and while it will secure better remmeration to all parties concerned if faithfully carried out, it will not, on the average, enhance the price of coal to the consumer."

Marié & Karrie Circular for Europe says:

Marie & Kanz's Circular for Europe says:

Since our advices of the 9th inst. Money has been very stringent, and Stocks amerally have experienced a marked decline. The demand for Money proceeds from the restrictive policy forced upon the Banks by the heavy withdrawals of specie for dutie spaid into the National Tressury, and for shipment to New-Grisans in settlement of Cotton operations, and to Havans for shoes un Suns. During the part week the New-York Sub-Treasury has absorbed beyond its disbursements $1,002,007, the Southern cities have taken $900,000. Havan $400,126, and Europe (via Boston) $500,000-in all, $2,450,000. The present specie reserve in the New-York Sub-Treasury is $41,000,000. On the other hand, California has sent us $1,000,000, and the reinhoring Northern cities about $1,000,000; but these last sams were received mostly at the close of the week. In addition to these positive reasurs, the Stock market is also influenced by the Europa from Liverpool Stat January, and by apprehensions of excessive imports of merchandiae, which may lead both to a foreign drain of specie and to a serious accumulation in the National Treasury. This accumulation will probably reach $55,000,000 to $40,000,000 by the last of July next, and a larger sum by the last of January, and may prove injurious to the commercial interests of the country if Constress, during the fifteen remaining days of the session, does not adopt measure, either to reduce the revenue or to enlarge the expeditures of the Government. It must be, breaver, remarked that since the beginning of the morth, the imports nave been proportionaly larger than they will be hereaf et, owing to the head winds provulent in January, and to the closing of other sesports by ice, and that up to this time the experts of the country at large, including speede, have followed the same corression very nearly as the imports, while Marié & Kanz's Circular for Europe says: will be hereaf et, owing to the head winds provident in January, and to the closing of other seaports by ice, and that up to this time the exports of the connery at large, including specie, have followed the same progression very nearly as the imports, white the stock of Cotton now on hand represents some $13,000,000 more than the reserve at this time law year.

following remarks:

NEW YORK, Feb. 17, 1857.
Our market has experienced during the week a sudden and ery decided contraction in Money
An accumulation of Specie in the Sub-Treasury, paid in for An accumulation of Specie in the Sub-Treasury, pair in for duties on the recent large importations, and the shipment of Specie for Havana and the Santhern States, have obliged our Banks to put themselves on the defensive. What, particularly preventies our Banks is, that unless extra appropriations to passed by the Congress about to adjourn, the accumulation of passed by the Treasury may attain such proportions during the season as may become alarming to them. Beside these facults exactly of Morely is partly explained by the large same momentarity absorbed by the holders of Cotton in tan Soutz, whose financial operations to this purpose reant more of less upon our market.

These causes, which of themselves were sufficient to produce an unfavorable effect in our stock market, have been accomparied by news of great inundations over a large portion of the country, injuring several railroads, as well by the damage done to their tracks, as by the interruption to regular business.
